A word about Arginine

Arginine is an amino acid (a building block of protein) which has been found to be essential for wound healing, when the body’s need for arginine is higher than usual. For chronic wounds that aren’t healing, an arginine enriched nutritional supplement in addition to the foods mentioned above, can be beneficial.